ALLERGENS ADVISORY & FOOD ALLERGY DISCLAIMER:

The safety checks of ingredients used in production are based on the information provided by the suppliers or manufacturers. Shogun's final packed products do not contain any allergens (according to lab reports) provided here to download. If Maitake mushrooms are prepared in the same kitchen, where other foods contain allergens or in close contact with other allergens products, or all dishes are washed in the same dishwasher, all these have a chance of the risk of allergens. Even a specially prepared meal for those with food allergies may still contain a traceable amount of allergens.

For the reasons mentioned above, Shogun cannot guarantee a total absence of these allergens in any of the prepared food with Shogun maitake mushrooms. Please note that you may choose to refuse to serve who have severe mushroom allergies in order to protect their safety and health. Distributors, Retailers and Customers are requested to make their own final decisions to consume cross contaminated allergens based on the conditions described above.

Thank you for your understanding.
